Measurable Evidence of Need:

MCA III data indicate reading proficiency rates continue to be above state average. Because reading is a critical element in each child's education, we will again focus on it as one of our building goals. We will focus on three main areas: fluency, comprehension and word knowledge. With the adoption of common core standards for English, it is relevant to build word knowledge and vocabulary in both fiction and nonfiction context. Also in keeping with the common core standards, our reading instruction will reflect an increased focus on nonfiction text and nonfiction reading strategies.

Students are being asked to read more complex texts in content areas, so a focus on academic vocabulary is an important part of our work. As the material becomes more difficult and the volume of work expands, students who are not reading fluently have a difficult time keeping up with schoolwork.

Assessments, authentic and formal, will be ongoing in both comprehension and fluency. We will use MCAIII scores to measure overall progress. We will use MAP target growth scores to measure individual and classroom progress. And finally, we will use formative assessments as a part of instruction to provide the information needed to adjust teaching and learning while they are happening.

MCA III

~69.41% of 3rd grade students were proficient on the 2014 MCA III Reading assessment.

~67.33% of 4th grade students were proficient on the 2014 MCA III Reading assessment.

~74.77% of 5th grade students were proficient on the 2014 MCA III Reading assessment.

MAP Data

~ 19% of Sibley 2nd Graders met or exceeded 125% of their typical growth as based by NWEA-MAP (Reading) Fall to Fall Assessments.

~ 15% of Sibley 3rd Graders met or exceeded 125% of their typical growth as based by NWEA-MAP (Reading) Fall to Fall Assessments.

~24% of Sibley 4th Graders met or exceeded 125% of their typical growth as based by NWEA-MAP (Reading) Fall to Fall Assessments.

~35% of Sibley 5th Graders met or exceeded 125% of their typical growth as based by NWEA-MAP (Reading) Fall to Fall Assessments.

11	Implementation of Text leveling system BAS	X		Teachers were trained in BAS to help determine independent and instructional text levels of students. Text levels are needed to determine guided reading groups and to determine the amount of support needed.
12	Ready, Set, Go Day	X		Schedules, feedback surveys, etc.

Which of these steps were especially powerful: The benchmark assessments have been instrumental in determining which students need support. Ready, Set, Go Day gave us important data about students before the school year even started. Classroom teachers, RTI coaches and Reading Support staff were quickly able to analyze the data to determine the level of support students need. The use of this initial data to inform instruction and set goals for students has been a key component for making decisions that help students be successful. The use of a text leveling system helps teachers determine independent and instructional text levels. Knowing text levels allow for differentiation in core literacy instruction.

What implications do this year's results have for 2014-15:

We continue to use data to work smarter. The same strategies along with new initiatives will be in place as we move forward with a more focused effort on data mining and data usage.

Which of these steps were especially powerful:

The implementation of Xtra Math as a replacement technology supporting fact fluency was especially powerful. This tool combined the use of transformational technology and paper reduction in an effort to move toward the high fluency standards.

Continuation of a solid 60 minute block of math at each grade level has been particularly powerful in meeting the needs of all learners. This block of time has allowed teachers to orchestrate a more guided math approach to learning.

What implications do this year's results have for 2014-15:

We will continue to use Xtra Math as a fluency building tool. We will also continue with the 60 minute block of time to optimize teaching and learning of mathematics.

Teachers will continue to use data to inform their instruction and to initiate intervention and enrichment as outlined in the four questions of PLCs.

Measurable Evidence of Need:

Research of other schools showed a significant decrease in disciplinary issues when students are taught, through peer interaction on a daily basis, how to deal with social skills, focus on academic skills and respect all peers inside and outside the classroom. The Northfield Public Schools Climate Survey in 2004 indicated that Sibley students and parents perceived bullying to be a bigger problem than the Sibley staff perceived. While we have made drastic improvements since 2004, we realize that vigilance in this area is ongoing and always in need of fine tuning. Our student population changes significantly each year with 5th graders moving on to the middle school and kindergartners coming in, so this area will be a continual focus for Sibley Elementary School.

Student SMART Achievement Goal:

In completing the spring survey, 95% of the parents surveyed will agree or strongly agree that students show respect for other students.

What implications do this year's results have for 2014-15:

We need to continue to work at refining and adapting our educational practices to meet the needs of our specific learners and ever-changing staff. New teachers were trained in Responsive Classroom I, and we were able to send four additional teachers to Responsive Classroom II.

Measurable Evidence of Need:

MCA III data indicate reading proficiency rates continue to be above state average. Because reading is a critical element in each child's education, we will again focus on it as one of our building goals. We will focus on three main areas: fluency, comprehension and word knowledge. With the adoption of common core standards for English, it is relevant to build word knowledge and vocabulary in both fiction and nonfiction context. Also in keeping with the common core standards, our reading instruction will reflect an increased focus on nonfiction text and nonfiction reading strategies. Students are being asked to read more complex texts in content areas, so a focus on academic vocabulary is an important part of our work. As the material becomes more difficult and the volume of work expands, students who are not reading fluently have a difficult time keeping up with schoolwork.

Assessments, authentic and formal, will be ongoing in both comprehension and fluency. We will use MCAIII scores to measure overall progress. We will use MAP target growth scores to measure individual and classroom progress. Measurable Evidence of Need:

Research of other schools showed a significant decrease in disciplinary issues when students are taught, through peer interaction on a daily basis, how to deal with social skills, focus on academic skills and respect all peers inside and outside the classroom. The Northfield Public Schools Climate Survey in 2004 indicated that Sibley students and parents perceived bullying to be a bigger problem than the Sibley staff perceived. While we have made drastic improvements since 2004, we realize that vigilance in this area is ongoing and always in need of fine tuning. Our student population changes significantly each year with 5th graders moving on to the middle school and kindergartners coming in, so this area will be a continual focus for Sibley Elementary School.

Student SMART Achievement Goal:

In completing the spring survey, 95% of the parents surveyed will agree or strongly agree that students show respect for other students.

In completing the spring survey, 95% of the parents surveyed will agree or strongly agree that teachers show respect for other students.

In completing the spring survey, 95% of the parents surveyed will agree or strongly agree that they feel welcome at Sibley.
